

The above cut shows the interior view of the new Oak cafe at 55 East Third South. This new and popular eating house has already won the praise of the public, and is the most complete of its kind west of Chicago, fitted up in the grandest of style with magnificent interior decorations, hand-painted wall, paneled paintings, having its own refrigerating plant, ice machines and large and spacious dining rooms. Salt Lake can well be proud of this new cafe. The proprietors, the Morgan Cafe company, have expended a large sum to make it one of the foremost cafes of its kind in the entire west, and invite the public to inspect their kitchen, which from a sanitary standpoint has no equal. The service, which is the best, is in the hands of efficient cooks and waiters, and everything the heart desires can be had at this new and beautiful cafe and at modern prices.

The decorative idea in this Oak cafe is entirely original. It was designed and executed by J. H. Hamlin of the firm of Hamlin Paints, the motif being taken from the name of the cafe and worked into a design. The materials throughout were invented and discovered by J. H. Hamlin, which he has termed Imp-Art. Samples of this work may be seen at the drapery department of the Keith-O'Brien department store. The ceiling is of heavy construction, resting on columns at the base of which is a wainscoting and plate rail panels naturally formed on the wall are a dark rich coloring with and across as a decorative relief. The side wall panels are a decorative relief of coloring, suggesting a scene in different conditions of nature, such as spring, summer, sunset, sunrise, moonlight, etc. Decorative scroll lettered with quotations from a poem on the oak tree by Forthright Chorley, "The Oak Tree."

At one end of the room is the cafe in rustic letters, the leaves relieved by leaves and vines. The exterior is a treatment of oak, which is covered with a glass, the metal of which is treated with Impervia Compound. It is one of the most pieces of work of its kind done in the west. The interior woodwork is treated with a rich dark English oak.

The modern refrigeration installed in the Oak Cafe by Mess. Roser, Shuller, agents for the Althoff Ice and Refrigeration company, keeps the meats dry and firm, and the refrigerated display counters when one enters tempt the appetite of the customer at once. Fifteen years ago telephones, trolley cars, electric lights and mechanical refrigeration were luxuries, today they are necessities, and with the up-to-date plant installed by the Morgan Cafe company from Mess. Roser & Shuller alone goes to show the sanitary conditions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Ogden, April 3.
Kindly tell me if a settler who takes up a place of 160 acres and proves up on the same has a right to take any more land under the homestead act.
A. READER.
A person who has proven up 160 acres cannot make additional entry under Smoot act.

Salt Lake City, April 2.
I would like to make an inquiry. I am a reader of your paper. What I want to know is, if a fellow is born in a foreign land and is brought to this country when a child, is he a citizen of the United States or not? The person I mention stays at our place. He says he is a citizen because his father took out naturalization papers, and he says he don't have to. I say he does or he cannot vote. Kindly answer in Sunday morning's Tribune. A. READER.

The naturalization of the father makes American citizens of his minor children; on coming of age, these are entitled to the same rights and privileges—including voting—that other citizens possess.

Park City, March 31.
Please answer in your Sunday issue: (1) If there is a law against gambling in this state; (2) and if so, who has the power to stop it? (3) Has the mayor a right to set aside that law?
J. C. MURPHY.

(1) There is such a law; see chapter 33 of the Penal Code, page 1206 New Revised Statutes. (2) Every prosecuting attorney, sheriff, constable, or police officer. (3) No, certainly not.
